SMITH SISTERS ASK FOR DAMAGES

Enter Suit Against City and Owner of Building.

Result of Wind Which Caused Collapse of American Express Co.
Building.

WAITING ON THE ADJUSTORS.

Suit was filed in circuit court this morning by Attorney Price and Ross for Misses Luella, Lettie and Ada Smith, doing business under the name of "Smith Sisters", against J. M. White and the city of Paducah asking for $4,000 damages for the loss of their stock at millinery in the wrecking of the American Express company building Monday. The petition states that White, who owns the Scott-Henninger building, whose walls falling in caused the wrecking of the smaller building, neglected to have the walls removed after the building burned. The city is brought into the suit because it is empowered as a city of the second-class to regulate fire protection and remove dangerous walls which in this instance it failed to do. The stock of the plaintiff is said to be a total loss.

Little work toward removing the debris from the site of the wrecked American Express company building has been done, but some little work has begun. Contractor Lutz Fields and a force of carpenters are clearing away as much debris from the site of the Smith Sisters' millinery store as possible in order to recover goods that escaped serious damage.

Mr. C. J. Abbott, route agent for the American Express company, is still working with the books and taking out as much express matter as is possible.

Capt. James White, owner of the Scott-Henninger building, which caused the wrecking of the smaller building, is in Paducah but will do nothing until the fire loss is settled with insurance adjusters.

Dr. D. B. Marrell, owner of the express company building, is also undecided what he will do towards rebuilding, but it is safe to predict he will not let the site remain vacant.

Capt. Wood's Experience.
A belated story of the storm excitement at Howlandtown park where colored people congregated Monday to celebrate Labor Day, comes from Captain Joe Wood, special officer at the park.

"They simply went wild," he said. "I saw the storm coming. It was about at Peckin's creek when I first noticed it as a dense black cloud, but suddenly it seemed to break and come in hundreds of parts. Trees bowed to the ground under the fury of the wind, and before I could give warning it was upon us. Storms were located at various parts of the ground. They were tall, being merely four poles nailed at the top and bottom, and a canopy spread over them. The wind caught one canopy, hurled it against a stove, spouting a three-foot flame from the stovepipe. It ignited and was next blown against two women, completely wrapping them. They rolled on the ground and succeeded in escaping without serious burns.

"Realizing what I meant to handle these people I secured the aid of several who seemed cool headed, and rushed to the gates. Over 500 men, women and children were trying to get out of a safe possible to pass but two at the time. My hard work we headed them back, but how some escaped being crushed is a mystery to me."

Wesley Flowers had a plate the chite which cost him several hundred dollars. This was picked up off its foundation and hurled far from its original site and wrecked.

SULTAN OF PADUCAH, MOHAMMED YEISER

Excitement of no small nature was occasioned by Mayor D. A. Vesper's appearance in the police court room this morning puffing desperately at a Turkish cigarette. It was the result of a dare made him honor by Mr. Dan Fitzpatrick, the "sand man." Mayor Yaiser tried to smoke a cigar last Christmas and was made desparately ill for a time. He had never tried cigars before and his courage getting the better of him this morning, he decided to give "pills" a trial, but declares one trial is sufficient.

WEATHER FORECAST.

FAIR.

Generally fair with moderate temperature tonight and Thursday. Highest temperature yesterday, 82; lowest today, 58.

TORPEDO BOATS.

Washington, Sept. 4.—Bids were opened at the navy department today for the construction of the torpedo boat destroyers under the terms of the naval appropriation acts of 1906 and 1907. The bid of the cost was fixed at $800,000 for each and no bidder was authorized to reserve contracts for more than two of them.

THE HAGUE.

The Hague, Sept. 4.—The latest suggestion of the American delegation to the peace conference made to the Latin-American countries regarding the proposition to establish a permanent international high court of justice at The Hague is that the conference select 15 to 20 electors who shall elect the judges. Even this does not find favor with the Latin-Americans; Senor Esteva, head of the Mexican delegation and Dr. Ray Barboza, the leader of the delegates from Brazil, showing special opposition to it.

BLACK HAND.

New York, Sept. 4.—Caught in the act of taking money from a victim whom they had threatened with death, three Italians whom the police are ring-leaders of the Black Hand were captured today by detectives after a wild flight on a trolley car.

Chio Apocai, a wealthy banker, has for more than a year been preying letters demanding $5000. He was told that his place would be blown up and his family annihilated unless he heeded the demand.

ANTWERP STRIKE.

Antwerp, Sept. 4.—The rioting between the local police and the striking dock laborers, less broken out afresh, and is rapidly assuming alarming proportions. Drums have been sent through the town to beat an urgent summons to the militia to turn out again immediately. The rioters speckled a large number of yards with petrol and set it on fire. The flames were kept until a late hour in putting out the flames.

SEWER DISTRICT, NO. 2, IS FORMALLY ACCEPTED

Sewer district, No. 2, has been formally accepted by the board of public works on report of City Engineer Washington that the sewer mains and laterals are properly laid. There now only remains the estimates, on which the assessment is to be based, and the connections with residences. The board instructed the engineer to issue permits to anyone wishing to make immediate connection, so that person may be credited with his share of the general expense of making the connections. Warrants will be issued for any persons making unauthorized connections.

GEO. O. MCBROOM OPENS HIS CAMPAIGN

The first gun of the campaign in the county will be fired Friday night at Florence station, where Professor George O. McBroom, Republican candidate for the legislature, will address the citizens of that section on the issues of the day. The speech will be made in the school house. There has been a demand from that section for Professor McBroom to publicly express his views, and in this effort he will fully outline his policy as representative from this county.

STORM ALONG GULF DESTROYS TOWNS

Believed Great Loss of Life in Georgia Village.

Wires Down and Menger Details
Received Cause Much Apprehension.

NEW ORLEANS FEELS EFFECT

New Orleans, Sept. 4.—Menger details of a fierce storm, which swept the gulf coast and the lower portions of Louisiana, Alabama, Mississippi and Georgia, and which at points assumed tornado dimensions, have been received in this city. No estimate of the amount of the loss can be made, as wires are down through all of the affected districts, but grave fears are entertained that much damage has been done.

A report has been received here that Fort Gaines, Georgia, a town of 1,000 inhabitants, was visited last by a tornado and completely destroyed. All communication by wire with the place has been cut off and efforts to reach neighboring towns by telephone have been futile. The railroad operators report that all wires east of Union Springs are down and that they can learn nothing of what has happened in the vicinity of Fort Gaines.

From the few bare details that have sifted into this city it is greatly feared that there has been considerable loss in the Georgia town. Fort Gaines is on the Chattahoochee river, which is the dividing line between Alabama and Georgia.

The effects of the storm were felt here in a considerable measure. During its height the oyster patrol boat Majestic, on Lake Ponchartrain was struck by lightning and set on fire. The boat was completely destroyed and the members of the crew had a narrow escape for their lives, getting away in lifeboats in a very heavy sea. All of them, after a trying experience, were finally rescued by another vessel.

The packet steamer H. M. Carter was another victim of the fury of the elements. The vessel, which was sunk less than a year ago on the Red river, was again sent to the bottom today on the same stream. She was blown against a snag near Marks-ville, La., and sank within three miles of the place where she went down before. She was loaded with merchandise from New Orleans for Alexandria, La. No lives were lost.

The Majestic, which was lost on Lake Ponchartrain, was an auxiliary schooner owned by the state of Louisiana and used to regulate the oyster industry.

COUNTY OFFICIALS WISH TELEPHONES

Order East Tennessee Telephone Company to Remove Poles from Road.

Fiscal court yesterday afternoon issued instructions to County Clerk Hiram Smedley to forthwith issue orders to the East Tennessee Telephone company to remove its poles from public highways in McCracken county. The cause of the order is said to be that the company is not living up to an alleged agreement with the county to furnish county officials with telephones gratis. Before the board voted on the question yesterday Clerk Smedley had made a minute investigation of records and failed to find any agreement or contract.

What the telephone company intends to do is not stated. Two of the company's attorneys are out of the city. It is stated that a majority of poles are on private property, the company buying the right of way. Until Manager A. L. Joyner returns from his vacation and confers with other officials and company attorneys nothing will likely be done.

Body of William Garner.

The body of William L. Garner, of Bay City Ill., who committed suicide in Port Collins, Col., by shooting himself through the heart, was brought through Paducah this morning en route to Bay City. A brother accompanied the body. No cause for the deed is known, the young man leaving no note. It is said that he is worth about $30,000.

Costs and Expenses of Hugh Boyle Case Charged up to City in Item Allowed by the Lower Board

It is Presumed "Costs and Expenses" Mean Attorney's Fee for Extra Lawyer in Addition to those to whom City Pays Salaries.

DEFENDANT PAYS THE COST

Cost in Suits Hugh Boyle Case $800.75.

This item appeared among claims allowed by the finance committee of the board of councilmen, and was ratified by the board last night.

As a matter of fact this is supposed to include the fee and expenses of Attorney Campbell Flournoy, who was employed to assist in the prosecution of Hugh Boyle, charged with selling liquor on Sunday and without a license at Fourth street and Kentucky avenue, although only one man connected with the city government has ever admitted that Mr. Flournoy was employed and he gave it out in the strictest confidence. Why the item should appear in such vague form in the records is not explained.

It was learned and exclusively announced in The Sun, that the mayor and the finance committee had conferred in regard to the employment of Mr. Flournoy and had agreed, the exigencies of the situation seeming to demand his services. It was hinted by a member that he was employed on request of City Attorney Harrison, presented through another party at the meeting; but when Mayor Yaiser, who, it is known, called the meeting was approached, he declined to even admit that Mr. Flournoy had been employed, but as he appeared in the case and presented his bill it is evident he was employed at somebody's behest.

The mayor was represented by the city solicitor, who took an active part, but no one will divulge who Mr. Flournoy represented.

The Boyle case originated in the police court, where the city has a city attorney employed to prosecute offenders. When Mayor Yaiser came into the case, by reason of revoking

Boyle's license and being enjoined, he called in City Solicitor James Campbell, Jr., who thereafter took an active and effective part in the prosecution. The defendant had only two attorneys and the city had two. However, after Mr. Flournoy's retention, he and Mr. Campbell conducted the prosecution to a successful termination, and no one doubts that Mr. Flournoy earned his fee, the only question is, why Mr. Flournoy was paid an extra fee, when the city has an attorney on a regular salary to attend to such duties.

JUDGE CROSS WARNS THEM NOT TO REPEAT

Seems Quiet Indignant Because Minors Bought Liquor.

Because they had imbibed beer to excess and were not exactly responsible for their actions, Louis Vaughan and Harry Cooley were dismissed in police court this morning but fined in the sum of $100 for their good behavior for 12 months towards each other. Vaughan was charged with maliciously cutting Cooley at the neck and Cooley is alleged to have thrown a brick at Vaughan. The evidence showed that both were drinking in a saloon when they started a dispute, ending in the cutting. Judge Cross administered a sound reprimand from the bench and warned them against going to saloons.

"If any case comes before me again where it is shown that boys under age such as Cooley buy intoxicating drinks in the saloons, I shall issue a warrant and fine the bartender for each and every drink sold," declared Judge Cross. "You boys should keep out of such places, and saloon men can run their business within the law as easily as a groceryman or drygoods merchant."

To Attend Funeral.

Baltimore, Md., Sept. 4.—Cardinal Gibbons, accompanied by the Rev. P. J. Garvan, chancellor of the diocese, left here today for Boston to attend the funeral of Archbishop Williams.

Dr. R. H. Starks, of Benton, is in the city on business.

WHARFBOAT IS STILL FAR FROM THE SHORE

Several Days Yet Before Big Structure is Swung Back into Position.

Paducah's wharfbarge is still out in the river, and it is the opinion of rivermen it will be the first of next week before the big boat will be ready for wagons to drive on and the packers to use again. One thing the owners are thankful for is that the river is falling and this is one thing they do not wish a big rise.

On each side of the northern stage the workmen have a barge and across the stage a heavy barge. Under the stage are large hooks and with screws the workmen are raising the big stage slowly. As the stage is raised the wharfbarge will swing into the bank with the current. The slackening of the line indicates the workmen have made good progress this morning.

Business continues to be unaffected to any degree. Freight is stacked on the bank and then carried aboard. However, if a heavy rain should fall, with no pucks at the wharf there might be some damage.

It is a novel sight to see Paducah without a wharfbarge and many old citizens are reminded of old days. Few can remember when there was no wharfbarge here.

SUPT. CARNAGEY HAS ONE BUSY DAY OF IT

Teachers, mothers and their children filled the office of Supt. John Carnagey at the high school building from early morning until late afternoon today. It is the day set for classifying children who have no entrance cards. From indications the schools will be taxed even more than last year.

LANDSCAPE GARDENER AT THE I. C. HOSPITAL

Mr. G. W. Webb, formerly gardener at the court house, and who is chiefly responsible for the beautiful condition of the court house yard, has resigned and accepted an appointment as landscape gardener at the Illinois Central hospital. He assumed his new position this morning. Mr. Webb is an experienced landscape gardener, and his appointment to the position with the railroad is the making of a new position.

BREAKERS ARE OUT ON STRIKE

Forty-five Join with Union
Carpenters Tying up
All Work.

SAY HAVE GRIEVANCE

Claim they were Promised
"Something Nice" by Contractors to Work.

BUT THEY DIDN'T GET IT

Non-union carpenters struck this morning and building in Paducah is almost at a standstill today, because of the walkout. Work on the new school buildings, the Paducah tannery, a number of private dwellings, was dropped. An officer of the carpenters' union stated that 45 men were received into the union last night, and during the day this number has been added to.

When asked for their grievance the officer replied that the contractors had promised the men a "snap" if they would work for them and the men did not believe they were getting the "snap" and joined the union. With the walkout the contractors are left with few men, one of them not having more than two.

The work under way that is affected is the erection of the new school on North Twelfth street by B. T. Davis, and a dwelling on Fountain avenue; the new school on Jackson street, by Lockwood & Tuttle, and work on the Palmer House. The Lockwood has the contract for the tannery.

The work on the schools is particularly urgent and it would not be possible to have them finished and equipped before December or January in any event. Unless the strike is settled at once the work will be indefinitely delayed.

The strikers are holding a big meeting this afternoon. This is the most encouraging news they have received since the walk out early in the summer and the men say they will assume the aggressive at once, with the backing of the other unions. Talks of compromise are now heard.

This afternoon at 2 o'clock the carpenters left their hall on North Fourth street, in a procession with a band in the lead. They marched out to Fountain avenue, where a few non-union men were working. The purpose was to get every carpenter in the city in the union. After an examination of the books the officers said they have a total membership of 176. Yesterday 131 were out and last night the 45 members were added.

None of the contractors could be found this afternoon to tell their side of the controversy.

Contractor George Welkel said today that he was not affected by the strike as all of his work at present is brick work, and had not reached a point for the carpenters to begin. He is building the new structure of St. Mary's academy.

NAB A NOTORIOUS CRIMINAL.

St. Louis Officers Have in Custody
Member of Wilson Gang.

Omaha, Neb., Sept. 4.—James Clark, who with W. P. Jackson of St. Louis was arrested by Detectives Devers and Helfeld of Omaha, on suspicion of safe blowing, has been identified as the notorious Marlon Hedgepath, who is alleged to be one of the best known criminals in the United States. Hedgepath 15 years ago was a member of the famous Sly Wilson gang of safe blowers and high waymen. Dick and Charles Wilson, the man Sly, and Hedgepath robbed a Missouri Pacific train near Omaha, when $50,000 was the booty. Later they were charged with holding up another Missouri Pacific train near St. Louis and getting $75,000. Hedgepath and Sly were captured near Los Angeles and the Wilsons in Syracuse, where they killed a detective. Dick Wilson died in Sing Sing.

Caterpillars Are a Pest.

If Egypt had been visited with a plague of caterpillars, like unto the fuzzy ones, now dropping on sidewalks and porches to be mashed into grease spots, or slipping unobserved down the back of the pedestrian in Paducah, the inhabitants might have been made even more uncomfortable. In the trees the worms eat like own cousins to the tobacco pest and display in addition a tendency to slide down inside people's collars. On the sidewalks they are only less dangerous than a banana peel. Tree lovers say they do not remember when the pest of caterpillars was worse.

RAILROAD NOTES

Engineer Joe A. McCann, of the Paducah and Fulton accommodation Illinois Central passenger runs, is fast improving and will be home in two weeks from the St. Louis Baptist hospital. He has been confined there two weeks, the result of an operation.

The interior of Master Mechanic R. E. Fulmer's office at the Illinois Central shops is being beautified by a coat of paint.

Business at the Illinois Central shops is rushing. The machine shop force is full and the car repairing force increased by 30 men. Engines are being repaired in all parts of the shops, not only in machine shops and round house, but under the tank shed and even in the open. Every engine is needed to handle the fast increasing business, and the steam hoists are kept busily puffing, coaling the big engines.

A foreman of what officials of the Illinois Central expect this winter in the way of business is the receipt of a consignment of 14 big engines of the 900 class, for the Paducah and Fulton districts of the road. They began coming about two weeks ago, and have been arriving in twos and threes since. Many more are en route here. The road also recently ordered 3,000 freight cars for immediate use, and at all shops increased the repairing force that will rolling stock be gotten into shape for the winter season.

Dr. E. R. Earle, resident physician at the Illinois Central hospital, is in Arkansas enjoying his annual vacation.

Illinois Central Reports.

In the statement sent out from Chicago it is claimed that the past fiscal year has been the most prosperous in the history of the Illinois Central.

A summary of the statement follows: also a comparison made in the report of the earnings of other roads south of the Ohio river with those of the Illinois Central. The report says in part that the gross receipts from the traffic of the Illinois Central for the past fiscal year ended June 30, shows an increase of nearly $5,000,000, or, to be exact, $4,974,228. The operating expenses and taxes increased $3,628,055. This makes the net earnings an increase of $1,346,173.

The report continues: "Not in the history of the Illinois Central railroad has any showing approached this. That the big increase in net earnings of the Illinois Central is due almost entirely to Mr. Harahan's management resulting in increased traffic is evident from the fact that other big southern roads for the same period show heavy decreases in earnings."

"Following lines south of the Ohio river present these figures: "Atlantic Coast Line, a loss of over $1,500,000 in net earnings. "Central of Georgia, a loss of about $500,000 in net earnings. "Chesapeake & Ohio, a decrease of about $600,000 in net receipts. "Queen & Crescent, loss of $200,000 in net. "Seaboard Airline, loss $1,300,000 in net receipts. "Southern Railway, loss nearly $2,000,000 in net earnings. "Illinois Central, increase $1,346,173 in net earnings."

Little Ills of Children

Mothers and all others who have children about the house cannot do their families a better service than to learn of simple and reliable remedies that correct children's ailments. Many grown people are suffering today for the ignorance or negligence of those who had charge of their bringing up.

Children are prone to constipation, and if it isn't corrected early, the bowels get in the habit of not working normally and soon chronic constipation results that may last off and on all through life. Then children eat almost continually and as a consequence indigestion sets in soon followed by worms, or stomach pains, or diarrhea, or any one of a dozen other troubles. To say that it will right itself is putting altogether too much faith in chance. It is trying with the child's present and future health.

A better way is to give the child a dose of something intended to cure that very trouble, and nothing better for the purpose is known than Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. It never grieves but it is gentle and as it has a pleasant taste the child will not refuse to take it. Buy a 50-cent or $1 bottle of year druggist and save the child from sickness. You should remember that a child whose stomach is in good working order is not likely to catch colds and fever diseases.

Mrs. Curry, of Trowbridge, Ill., attributes the remarkable health of her child to Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, which she gives regularly in these disorders. Mrs. Everole, of Hinsdale, Ill., is frank to say that the present good condition of her five-year-old boy is entirely due to this wonderful remedy. Try it in your own family and see if you cannot share these opinions. Every bottle is guaranteed to do exactly as we claim, and the purity of ingredients is also vouched for.

FREE TEST—If you wish to try Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin before buying, call on him first in their home by addressing the company. This offer is to prove to you the remedy will do as we claim, and is only open to those who have never taken these pills. Send it to you now any symptoms of stomach, liver or bowel disease. Paducahs Won From Giants.

The Paducahs handed out defeat good and strong to the Louisville Giants yesterday, says the Louisville Post, by the score of 12 to 9. The Paducahs started to make a runaway game of it in the first two innings, when they knocked Thomas off the slab and made six runs. The Giants came up strong, however, and had the game won until Ross made an error in the eighth, and gave the visitors three runs.

THEATRICAL NOTES

Santell and All Star Company.

Advanced vaudeville is what the people are demanding, and all the prominent theatrical managers of America have had their agents out, with instructions to secure the best, regardless of cost. Manager Harry G. Hinkler, of Buffalo, N. Y., has sent out the first all-star advanced vaudeville company. This company will appear at The Kentucky for three nights and Saturday's matinee, beginning Thursday, September 5. Santell, the world-famed Hercules, known as the perfectly developed man, with a perfect act, was one of the first great stars secured by the directors of the New York Hippodrome, his performance created quite a furore in New York City and he remained there for an entire season. There are 20 performers in the company, including Holmes and Hollister, Yankee comedians; Carnern and Toledo, in their pantomime extravaganza, entitled the Ruchanted Grotto; the beautiful and talented Hurton sisters, Daly and O'Brien. The company is now filling a four weeks' engagement in Cincinnati and will come from that city to Paducah.

A Great Circus.

The Carl Hagenbeck & Great Wallace Shows Combined will visit Paducah Monday, September 16, and be seen in Paducah the first time combined. All through the past winter months great activity was noticeable in and about the famous Hagenbeck & Wallace winter quarters, in Peru, home of the biggest circuses in the world. Numerous extremely odd and unfamiliar animals were added to the already first-prize zoological department. Every inch of the immense street display was renovated, renewed, reconstructed and rejuvenated; bright and glittering costumes are now visible on every side, and in the three rings of the circus proper a perfect array of prominent performers and acts are seen. Fifty up-to-date clowns, and other funny fellows, make things lively, too.

The Hagenbeck & Great Wallace shows are among the largest shows that travel this year, each department having been augmented with a wonderful series of acts, features, novelties and attractive stunts, to say nothing of the gorgeous additions made to the monster menagerie, and of course the famous trained wild beasts exhibition is also the big animal feature. And will be remembered as one of the big hits at the St. Louis world's fair.

PALMER HOUSE ON FIRE.

Paulie Narrowly Averted at Historic Chicago Hostelry.

Chicago, Sept. 4.—Seven hundred guests of the Palmer House, the historic hostelry at State and Monroe streets and Wabash avenue, were thrown into a panic at 11:15 o'clock last night when a fire, which threatened to consume the structure, broke out in the basement under the Dunlap Hat company's store in the same building.

Immediately after the blaze was discovered the hotel filled with smoke and in a moment the corridors were congested with frightened men and women, many in scanty attire, who carried such belongings as they could grab up in a hurry.

At midnight the fire was said to be under control, but by that time most of the guests were in the street, and a panic was narrowly averted.

A Football Team.

Football is here once more and Paducah is to be represented with a good team. Last night a meeting of candidates for positions on the "Culley" football team was held and Charles Hickey was elected manager. Monday, Wednesday and Friday evenings were selected as practice times, and also Sunday afternoons. First practice will be held next Sunday.

MAY SUMMON JOHN D.

Kellogg Lets It Be Inferred That the Standard Magazine May Testify.

New York, Sept. 1.—Frank B. Kellogg, attorney for the government in a suit brought to dissolve the Standard Oil company of New Jersey, let it be inferred today that he intended to summon John D. Rockefeller as a witness before Franklin Ferris, special examiner of St. Louis. When asked if a subpoena had been issued for the former active head of the big corporation, he shook his head and said: "Not yet."

"Yes," said Miss Bute. "Mr. Kucher proposed to me, it was quite a novel experience."

"Nonsense!" replied Miss Chumley. "You've been proposed to before."

"Oh! yes, but I mean he did it so romantically it was just like a novel."

Woman will never rank as man's equal until she can read and explain the report of a baseball game.

More Water Wanted.

"And the name is to be"—asked the suave minister as he approached the foot with the precious rimful of fat and boucées.

"Augustus Philip Ferdinand Corington Chesterfield Livingston Snooks."

"Dear me!" Turning to the sexton: "A little more water, Mr. Perkins, if you please."—Till-Bits.

Just the Opposite.

"They call the town you live in a 'woman's paradise,' do they?" said the man with the pointed nose. "Hm—muse the women outnumber the men five or six to one?"

"Not at all," answered the man with the bulging brow. "Because the men outnumber the women five or six to one."

There is some hope for the fool who does not boast of his wisdom.

"The Mercy of Coming Events."

We must all wonder, for a moment now and then, what strange new "brew" is being prepared for us by the busy forces which we name "Circumstances."

In the home life the exit of a servant; in the store, "some thing happens" to our best clerks; in every business venture something "upsets" our favorite plan. If we own property, our best tenant leaves, or our neighbor sells his property at a big profit—while we "hold on" to ours, not willingly.

Emerson expressed it: "Man imprisoned in mortal life, lies open to the mercy of coming events."

And the truth has led us to consider ways and means for "taking the sting out" of these coming events—for turning them into endurable burdens. And of these ways and means which we have created, the chiefest is Want Advertising. A wise use of this modern convenience, this instrument of service, not only makes coming events merciful—it makes us to contemplate them without trepidation.

CHAFING DISH Denatured Alcohol

We take pleasure in announcing that we now have Denatured Alcohol for our trade. It is to be used for burning purposes only, as nearly every one now knows, but for use in the arts and mechanics it is the most economical and satisfactory fuel known.

Cheaper than wood alcohol, it also burns without any of its offensive odor. Next time try it in your chafing dish or alcohol heater; it will be a revelation to you. Be sure to phone WINSTEAD'S, for no other Paducah druggist handles it.

BECOMING A MOTHER

Is an ordeal which all women approach with indescribable fear, for nothing compares with the pain and horror of child-birth. The thought of the suffering and danger in store for her, robs the expectant mother of all pleasant anticipations of the coming event, and casts over her a shadow of gloom which cannot be shaken off. Thousands of women have found that the use of Mother's Friend during pregnancy robs confinement of all pain and danger, and insures safety to life of mother and child. This scientific liniment is a god-send to all women at the time of their most critical trial. Not only does Mother's Friend carry women safely through the perils of child-birth, but its use gently prepares the system for the coming event, prevents "morning sickness," and other discomforts of this period. Sold by all druggists at $1.00 per bottle. Book containing valuable information free. The Bradfield Regulator Co., Atlanta, Ga.

MOTHER'S FRIEND

HANGS TO BALLOON

BOY TAKEN INTO AIR DANGLED AT END OF ROPE.

Has Sufficient Presence of Mind to Seize Hold of Tree Fifty Feet From Ground.

Fort Wayne, Ind., Sept. 1.—Caught by his foot on a rope dangling from a balloon, William Hootling, aged 12, was carried aloft today but escaped by grasping the limb of a tree when, fifty feet from the ground and clinging on until the rope unwound itself from his leg.

The boy was watching an ascension being made by a woman aeronaut, during the Labor day celebration at a local park, and, counting too near, was caught when the woman cut loose. When he found himself going up past the lower branches of the tree he grasped one, but the limb was too light and broke off, allowing him to continue upward with the end still grasped in his hand.

The boy kept his wits, however, and, as he was being dragged over the top of the tree, grabbed for another hold. This time the branch was heavy enough to bear the strain, and when the rope untwined itself from his leg the boy swung downward, still holding tight, and clinging there until several men climbed up and rescued him, unharmed but badly scared.

The accident, which occurred before a large crowd, caused a small sized panic and several women fainted when they saw the boy being carried upward.

Mansfield Anecdotes.

I often dined on smelts. There was a famous brewery on Cheapside, and I used to go there every morning, because I thought the smell of hops strengthening. For a second course I would stand in front of a butcher shop, then the baker's.

One day I determined to go to London and try my luck. I had become a great favorite in the provinces; so without a penny more than my fare I boarded the train. The company all came to see me off. I was universally liked then; but things are different now. I don't know why.

An elderly lady, a member of our company, thrust a £5 note into my hand, a small fortune to one of that company. I returned it soon after and have often looked for the old lady to give her an engagement. She was a crank—only cranks do kind deeds in real life.—By Himself.

COULD NOT CASH ORDER.

And Young Blacksmith Nearly Starved to Death in New York.

New York, Sept. 3.—An unusual case came to the attention of the police Sunday night when they found Richard Reynolds, a young Swedish blacksmith, who came here from Watertown, N. Y., to see Prince Wilhelm, wandering about the streets in a starving condition despite the fact that he had in his possession a money order calling for $10.50. The money order only reached Reynolds Sunday morning, in reply to a request he had sent to his home for funds, and, as it was Sunday, he could not get it cashed. Reynolds, who had nothing to eat since Friday, wandered about until night, when, nearly insane from hunger, he appealed to the police. He was taken to a restaurant, where he ate ravenously, and will be cared for until he can get his order cashed and start for home.

Marysville, O., Sept. 4.—In its first trip today a mammoth New York Central engine jumped the track and rolled down an embankment. The fireman, Albert Welder, of Delaware, Ohio, was fatally injured. Charles McGuire, the engineer, remained at his place and escaped with trivial injuries.

BIGGEST SHAKUP IN NAVAL HISTORY

Only Four of Present Captains Will Make Long Trip.

Department Intends That Young Officers Shall Have Benefit of Tour To Orient.

SOME CHANGES PROPOSED.

New York, Sept. 1.—The biggest shakedown in the history of the United States navy is now in process of arrangement by the secretary of the navy, who has the approval of President Roosevelt in the plan outlined.

Of the officers now commanding the 18 battleships to make the long voyage from the Atlantic to the Pacific for a world beating cruise, only four captains now commanding ships will make the trip. The president and secretary of the navy have agreed to forward the long desired plan of advancing young men to the highest line and send their elders to the rear, and of the 18 captains who will command and be responsible for the $100,000,000 worth of armament and equipment to be sent through the strait of Magellan to the Pacific 14 will be men younger than the captains now in command.

Some Who Will Make the Trip. The following captains will hold their ships and make the trip: Porter of the Vermont, Vinceland, of the Kansas, Osterhaus of the Connecticut, and Wainwright of the Louisiana. Wainwright was found to be well on toward retirement time, but his service during the Spanish war advanced him in rank so rapidly that he is one of the first in line for a rear admiralship, and will be saved the regret of being put ashore during his latter years of active service.

Among naval officers of high rank it was said today that Capt. McCrea, commanding the Georgia, might also be kept in his command, making five of the present captains to stay aboard ship for this cruise. But his date of retirement is in 1913, only six years hence, and it is said that his case is in doubt.

The captains who will be sent ashore to make room for younger officers of the same rank are: Seaton, Schreder of the Virginia, William W. Kimball of the New Jersey, J. B. Munro of the Rhode Island, Samuel P. Combs, of the Alabama, George B. Bucklinger of the Illinois, Herbert Winslow of the Kearsarge, Edward H. Barry, of the Kentucky, Lewis C. Heller of the Ohio, Giles D. Barber of the Maine, John Hubbard of the Minnesota, G. A. Merriam of the Missouri and probably the captains, Albert G. Berry and Theodore Porter of the armored cruisers Tennessee and Washington.

Relieved From Sea Duty.

The intention of the navy department to relegate the older captains to the rear and put the younger ones in command of the great new battleships of the fleet became known through an official communication to the first of the captains to prepare for duty ashore. This communication was delicately even with kindness, but, and it informed the particular captain that his relief from sea duty at this time was in no way a criticism by the department on his capacity as the commander of a first class battleship of the United States navy. It is said to have also extended in explanation so far as to give comfort to the captain by assuring him that the other captains, save those given above, who will retain their commands, would also be put ashore.

An effort to secure the name of this the first of the captains of the fleet to be put ashore was unsuccessful.

The change in the commanders of the ships at this time has so far advanced and so much of detail of the plan has become known in the line of the navy that there is no other topic of conversation among the officers of the fleet which Admiral Evans will take from the Atlantic to the Pacific.

It was said by a naval officer of high rank that the plan was to put on shore duty all captains who had reached an age where they could not expect to be advanced to a rear admiralship and then serve two years before retirement.

Edict to Follow Maneuvers.

The shakedown will occur wholesale just after the finish of the target practice and maneuvers off Cape Cod this month. The work of the battleships in these maneuvers will be the first of its kind ever ordered by the department. Naval officers are waiting for this practice with the keenest interest. New range finding apparatus has been invented of recent years and where only recently the target practice of the United States battleships at 4,000 yards was considered almost without equal on the part of the ships of any other navy. Uncle Sam's present proposition is to make world records at 6,000 yards under full speed and under conditions that promise to test the limit of capacity of maneuvering and gunnery of the American man and officer.

The present captains of the big new ships will engage in these maneuvers and will then be relieved to make way for the younger ones. Just who will take the places of the captains to be sent ashore no one knows outside of the department. By the time the fleet is ready to start on its long voyage there will be plenty of men of the rank of captain, younger men with plenty of eagerness to engage in the responsible task.

MAY FINE MINERS FOR STRIKING

Joint Meeting of Indiana Boards to Determine Disputed Question.

Terre Haute, Ind., Sept. 3.—It will require a joint meeting of the state executive boards of the Indiana miners and operators to decide if 400 men at a John H. Walsch coal mine are liable to a fine of $1 a day each, as prescribed by a contract, for striking pending an arbitration. The miners took their tools away, which is claimed to mean suiting employment and not striking.

WOUNDED

KILLS MARSHAL OF MISSOURI TOWN IN BATTLE.

Advance Agent of Gang of Safe-Blowers, Lingers Between Life and Death.

St. Louis, Sept. 4.—After mortally wounding Acting Marshal Al Kopf, of Pacific, Mo., 35 miles west of St. Louis, Clarence Anderson, a "yeggman," or advance man for safeblowers and postoffice robbers was himself shot today by a physician hurrying to Kopf's side and whose horse and buggy he demanded to escape in. Anderson is in the Pacific jail, hovering between life and death. Kopf died at noon.

Anderson and three companions, walking to St. Louis, approached Pacific at 8 a. m. Tuesday, quarreled and came to blows. Their loud words alarmed Mrs. Mary Lynde, whose home is near the railroad, a quarter of a mile west of Pacific, and she telephoned for Kopf.

When the Acting marshal approached the "yeggmen" warned his way, declaring they would kill him if he interfered in their quarrel. Kopf pronounced them all under arrest as he approached to seize Anderson, one "yeggman" whipped forth a revolver and fired.

The bullet entered Kopf's breast, penetrated the pleural cavity and lodged near the spine. Anderson sped toward Pacific. His companions scattered and have not been caught.

Mrs. Lynde witnessed the shooting from a window of her home, and telephoned for Dr. McNay. He jumped into his buggy with Michael Heltz, who happened to be in his office, and they lashed the horse toward the scene.

On the way to Mrs. Lynde's home the buggy passed Dr. McNay's house, and was first in front of it when Anderson, panting from his long run, sprang into the center of the road and, with leveled revolver, demanding that the men give up the horse and buggy.

The men climbed out of the buggy. Heltz sped toward the business district of Pacific, giving the alarm. Dr. McNay entered his home and procured a shotgun.

Instead of taking instant advantage of this, Anderson, seated in the buggy with his revolver in one hand and the reins caught in the other, kept his eyes warily on Dr. McNay's house. Trees in front of the house sheltered him from fire from the front door, and he apparently waited Dr. McNay's appearance to shoot at him.

PHILLIPINE COAL

MAY SUPPLY AMERICAN FLEET IN ASIATIC WATERS.

Secretary Taft Orders Operations To Commence in the Batuan Coal Mines.

Washington, Sept. 4.—Secretary Taft decided before leaving Washington to authorize immediate work in the Batuan coal mines, in the Philippines. This is one of the questions that came to the front as a result of the talk of war with Japan. It was pointed out that if war should actually come, whether with Japan or any other power, the United States would be in a most unfortunate position in the matter of her coal supply in the east.

He allotted $50,000 to be expended this year in getting machinery and working the mines. The work will be done under the supervision of a skilled officer of the quartermaster-general's department.

Major Daniel E. McCarthy, in making a report on the matter recently, said that it was proposed to use the Batuan coal on the transports and eventually supply the ships of the navy on the Asiatic station.

MANSLAUGHTER CHARGE.

Against General Manager of New York Central.

New York, Sept. 4.—Alfred H. Smith, vice president and general manager of the New York Central Railroad, must stand trial on a charge of manslaughter in the second degree because of a wreck of the electric train on the Harlem railroad at Woodlawn, February 16, last, according to a decision handed down today by Supreme Court Judge Gleason.

"Do you think his interest in art will ever amount to anything?" "No," answered Miss Cayenne. "He is too well off to become an artist himself and not rich enough to become a connoisseur."—Washington Star.

Well, what do we have a board of public works for, if it isn't to have somebody to blame when things go wrong?

Still, the county officials shouldn't take it too hard. None of the rest of us got free telephones for the use of our highways, either.

WHERE WAS THE CITY ATTORNEY?

There is no one to gainsay the fact that Attorney Campbell Flournoy earned all the city paid him for his services in the Hugh Boyle liquor case; but when one contemplates the fact that the city has an attorney employed to prosecute cases in the police court, and, as a matter of course, stay with the cases and fight them through the court of appeals, the necessity for hiring an outside attorney, to look after the work, is not quite clear to the average citizen. Especially is it strange, since the city collector, who represents the mayor as the legal director of his executive acts, entered heartily into the proceedings and performed yeoman service in behalf of the prosecution. One would think two attorneys paid by the city, opposed to two attorneys employed by the defense, should be sufficient for all the requirements of the occasion. The fact is clear that City Solicitor Campbell and Mr. Campbell Flournoy attended to the prosecution, and for that reason Mr. Flournoy earned his fee, but the necessity for his services is a trifle beyond us.

If anybody finds a loose earthenware lying around anywhere, he will please inform the Washington weather bureau, which has lost one.

With all that hot air circulating around the capital of Marshall county Monday, western Kentucky might have been prepared for some atmospheric disturbance.

Of course, that amended skating ordinance, prescribing an age limit on sidewalk skaters, will keep the young ladies off the streets. They wouldn't tell their ages for anything.

McCracken county magistrates may think the coroner holds unnecessary inquests, but they are going the wrong way about it. As the fiscal officers of the county, they have the right to investigate the coroner's fee account, but they can't restrict that powerful officer in his discharge of his duty.

PRECEPT AND EXAMPLE.

"It is pleasing to note these evidences of political independence—a disposition to demand honesty, ability and proper qualifications for the office on the part of the candidate in preference to party regularly, says the Owensboro Inquirer. 'It is too often the case that a candidate of either dominant party has no claim to many except 'regularity'—never scratched a ticket.' But the day is rapidly passing when the fellow who boasts that he has always voted the ticket, even if a 'yaller dog' was the nominee can defeat the candidate who makes every claim necessary except 'regularity.' It is not the ablest, best and most intelligent men who always 'vote her straight,' even though the nominee maybe no more than one of the 'yaller dog' variety."

Then, may we hope who will cease abusing the Courier-Journal for practicing what you preach?

ATHLETICS IN SCHOOLS.

Sir John W. Byers, one of the speakers before the international congress on school hygiene which was held recently in London, and president of the section of physical education and training in personal hygiene, urged the importance both of systematic physical exercise and of games, but in referring to games he uttered a warning against professionalism, and quoted approvingly these lines from the editor of Punch:

Yet in a hundred scenes, all much the same,
I know that weekly half a million men
(Who never actually played the game),
Hustling like cattle herded in a pen,
Look on and shout,
While two and twenty hirelings hack a ball about.

Considered as a contemptuous reflection upon fans and rooters, we do not think much of these lines because a good game is worth seeing as well as playing, and this is true of college, school and professional games. But now that we are near the opening of another school and college year it is pertinent to remark that athletics reduced down to the two and twenty, whether they are hirelings or not, is of very little value. The half million boys and more should all participate in games out of doors and thus derive a direct benefit from them. They should go in for some exercise besides mere howling, and when they are present at intercollegiate contests they should be as different as possible from the touts and bookmakers and queer crowds that have given such a sport as horse racing an evil name the country over.

The college or school game may have a value as healthy play, may be an important factor in physical training, may help develop strong qualities of mind and character, but only if it is entered into in the right spirit and is not absolutely centralized in an eleven, a nine or an eight to the exclusion of the many and the excessive training of the few. This reminds us, moreover, that for one mind all there is need of Dr. Byers' warning: "While urging the importance of physical education let me say that it must not be overdone either in the case of boys or girls; rather it must be regarded simply as a necessary and useful adjunct to the cultivation of the mind."—Chicago Record-Herald.

Limit the Coroner.

Fiscal court yesterday "afternoon instructed Coroner Frank Baker not to hold an inquest over any body until authority is gotten from the county attorney or attending physician. It is the idea of the court to do away with the expense of so many inquests unless they are necessary, and when thought to be necessary by either the county attorney or attending physician, may be held. Heretofore Coroner Baker has held inquest or inquisitions over every body where death came when a physician was not attending.

ROLLER SKATING
WITH COMMITTEEAge Limit to be Placed on Sidewalk Skaters.

Mayor Yeiser Pokes Up Building Inspector Ordinance—Two Committees On It.

BUSY SESSION LAST NIGHT.

Holler skating did not give the council such a tussle after all. After a few short talks against "the nuisance," the board decided the proper thing to do was to place an age limit on the skaters. Before the session began members of the council were searching through the rule book, and to their satisfaction found the rule that prevented their taking up the matter, because it had been defeated within the last six months. However, Mayor Yeiser pointed out that rule 36 gave them power to take it up if a majority voted "aye."

A few minutes after the meeting was called to order light steps were heard in the hall and every member looked to the door, expecting something. Ten women walked in and took seats quietly. A Mr. Jones said he could point out to the board where the skating was damaging the pavement. One member of the delegation said she did not care if the skaters did soon wear out the walk, since then she might have a peaceful rest at night.

All speeches were not strictly against roller skating, but the residents asked relief from the boys who monopolize the sidewalks and keep the smaller children off.

Appropos to the falling of the building on Broadway and the crushing down of the American Express office, Mayor Yeiser suggested the expedience of creating the office of building inspector. The mayor suggested that a special committee should be appointed to take up the matter. In response Councilman Foreman said the ordinance had been written, but there were several clauses in it that did not suit everyone and they had been trying to improve it. President Lindsey appointed on the special committee Councilmen Tuttle, Crandall and Foreman. He said it was better to send this committee to get after the other one.

President Lindsey.

After the completion of the regular business President Lindsey asked Councilman Lackey to take the chair. When President Lackey asked for new business and President Lindsey introduced a resolution that the board of public works be instructed to ask for bids for the graveling of Twenty-second and Twenty-third streets, between Trimble and Mildred streets, in event of its failure that the mayor be instructed to do so. The resolution was passed without a dissenting vote. City Engineer Washington explained that the work was planned to be done this summer, but in giving it out for publication the two streets had been omitted.

Horse Traders.

A communication was received from Frank Dunn, the city weigher, asking that relief be afforded the city scale yards from the horse traders. On busy days the traders are in the way and do not bring any revenue to the city. Mayor Yeiser thought it a matter worthy of consideration, and asked that it be referred to the ordinance committee and the board passed the recommendation.

Councilman Duvall made the motion that the ordinance committee bring in an ordinance, compelling the traction company to place on each end of all its cars the latest improved ladders. The motion passed unanimously.

Expenses for the month amounting to $11,730.18, were allowed by the board.

Dr. D. J. Foster complained that heavy wagons on Jefferson street were run with the wheels on one side of the concrete gutter, damaging the curb. The mayor thought it a matter of importance and it was referred to the ordinance committee.

Miscellaneous Business.

Notice was given the city by the mayor that Frank Parham had filed suit against the city for the loss of bed clothing destroyed several years ago. The board referred it to the finance committee and city solicitor.

R. S. Barnett, sanitary inspector, was given a leave of absence for 30 days and Robert Lax was appointed in his place.

John W. Little asked for exemption from taxes for five years. His factory recently burned and he intends rebuilding. It was referred to the finance committee.

The deed for the sale of the old city hospital to John Holmes was ratified by the council.

The ordinance, prohibiting men from riding with prostitutes in carriages or walking with them on the streets, was given second passage. The word "knowingly" was placed in the ordinance. Considerable discussion was brought up over the ordinance, as to its efficacy.

The ordinance, requiring the meat and milk inspector to examine dairy cows once every six months, for tuberculosis was given first passage. The ordinance, reading that one may make application for a liquor license at a location only once for every six months was given first passage. Councilmen Lackey, Crandall and Mayer voted "aye."

The ordinance, providing for the sale of a franchise for a street car line in Mechanicsburg was given first passage.

Councilman Tuttle was placed on the street committee in place of Councilman Herzog.

There is room for only eight more graves in the colored section of Oak Grove cemetery and relief must be given. Councilman Williamson and City Engineer Washington will look over the new addition at once and arrange for graves.

In Police Court.

The warrant charging Jesse Well, the young automobile enthusiast, with disorderly conduct, for speeding his machine within the city limits, was continued in police court this morning. There were several motorists on hand to hear the testimony.

Harry Smith, colored, charged with throwing a brick into a flower-laden car, was ready for trial except that the man who was struck, was absent from the city. The warrant was filed away.

Other cases: Dave Johnson, drunk, $1 and costs; E. B. Nell, breach of ordinance, $5 and costs; Ed Hamilton and John Earn, breach of peace, $5 and costs each; Bill Faulkner, drunk and disorderly, $10 and costs; Bud Eard and Crill Broyles, breach of peace, former fined $5 and latter dismissed; Jerry McMillen, colored, colored, breach of peace, continued; Tom Wood, colored drunk, $10 and costs; Will Bishop, cruelty to animals, dismissed; Arthur Dunn, $10 and costs, and Will Taylor, 1 cent and no costs for breach of peace; Dr. Hardwick, blank Ward, breach of peace, $5 and costs each; E. Wyatt, obtaining board by false pretenses, continued.

Holl Hinglealey, a bartender, was fined $25 and costs for breach of peace. He was charged in an indictment with maliciously striking Marvin Polk.

MEDICINE SHOW

"BESTED IT" BY "BAD MEDICINE" MAN IN AUDIENCE.

Haus Amuck and Strikes Right and Left, Sending People in All Directions.

For breaking up a medicine show at Eighth and Tennessee streets last night Edward Bulger, of Mechanicsburg, was fined $10 and costs and Ross Thomas and Ed Scott, charged with assisting him, were dismissed. No evidence was introduced to show that either of the latter two had taken any part in trouble.

The evidence showed that Bulger got suddenly wild and began striking right and left. Scattering in every direction, the large crowd retreated and soon there were not enough about the platform to talk to and the "Doctor" had to quit business.

Patrolman Wood and Rouse were within a few blocks and hastened to the scene in time to witness Bulger's last exhibition. He ran, but Patrolman Rouse was too quick for him. Scott tried to get Bulger home before the difficulty but failed.

SOUND LOGIC.

August and September are two months when one has to be very careful about every condition that makes for good, or bad health. The system is usually beginning to feel the strain of the hot summer months and the different organs need but very little to throw them into complete disorder and result in probably a fatal illness.

Good health is assured however if you heed nature's gentle warnings, and are in any measure discreet. The usual summer disorders—malaria, general worn-out, and run-down, conditions, biliousness, stomach and bowel disorders of all kinds, chronic or acute headaches yield readily, and very quickly, to the Osteopathic treatment, and have no attending ill effects. Usually you are as ill from the customary medical prescriptions as from the illness, but in Osteopathy you experience none of this. Let me tell you at any time of the great success I am having with the treatment in Paducah. I shall refer you to people you know well for the evidence, and who will tell you just what it has done for them.

The Folk Boom.

There has been much talk in the southern press about a southern man for president, but it has been tentative in character and has sounded more like a notification that the south is not committed to Mr. Bryan than the assertion of a definite purpose to take up one of her own favorite sons. A positive step in that direction has, however, been taken at last. A Folk club has been organized at Nashville, Tenn., with the avowed purpose of advocating the nomination of the Missouri governor as the Democratic candidate for president. The boom started at a meeting of about 25 prominent citizens of Nashville, Ex-Gov. James M. Porter was elected chairman of the Joseph W. Folk club and Robert L. Hurch, editor of the Merchant and Manufacturer, secretary. In a statement issued by a committee composed of men of weight and influence the opinion is expressed that Governor Folk will win if nominated, and that he will be nominated if Tennessee leads the way. It is announced that a literary campaign bureau will soon be started, and that systematic effort will be made to spread the movement throughout the south.

It remains to be seen how the movement will take. At the outset it appears to have inspired interest, but no enthusiasm. The Nashville Banner remarks:

"Should it be taken as a mere compliment by Tennesseeans to a former Tennessean who has made achievements in public life, its influence will be restricted; but if it is regarded in other states, as its promoters desire it to be, as a suitable response to a party need in a critical period in its history, we may soon begin to hear more of a Folk boom."

In the appeal that the Folk club is now sending out through Tennessee the favorite son feature of the case is put forward as a leading argument. The appeal says:

"We invite you and all Democrats to join us for Folk, as well known, in a Tennesseean and a graduate of Vanderbilt university. His brother, Reuben E. Folk, is Tennessee's treasurer and insurance commissioner."

Much more than such considerations will be needed to raise the movement to national importance, but Governor Folk's character and record can supply them. He is to speak in Nashville during the celebration of Home-Coming Week, September 23 to 28, and hopes are entertained that his address then will give a sustained impetus to his presidential boom.—Baltimore News.

Origin of Some Things.

Tra came originally from India. Sugar came from China. Yeast bread was made first in England. Tobacco was a common weed, first grown by the Indians in Virginia. Forks for eating were first used in Italy. They were needed for rolling up macaroni. Gunpowder was used by the Chinese shortly after the death of Christ. Mirrors with silvered backs were invented by Praxiteles 228 years before Christ. The backs of our mirrors of today are painted with a composition, a miserable cheap stuff that soon peels off. Blamfuntig was invented in England in the eighteenth century. The original water-ground cornmeal was an invention of the Goths in 555.—New York Press.

"Where Was It At?"

A criminal from the rural district, who had heard all about appeals to the supreme court and who had been convicted of a penitentiary offense, was asked by the judge if he had anything to say. "I jes want ter ax one question, judge," he stooped down, picked up his slouch hat from the floor, as though ready to depart, and said: "Wharabouts is this here supreme court at?"

"John, where is Skinnem's broker-age office?"

"Why do you ask?"

"I understand he is offering some bargains in stocks slightly damaged by water."

THE MAN WITH A HEEL.

[Copyright, 1907, by Mary McKee.]

James Dodd had been an employee of the house of Walford & Co., the Bond street diamond merchants, for a period of fourteen years before he was made assistant manager and given charge of the inset stones.

For two years after he had been given charge of the gems James Dodd was simply waiting. He meant to fill his pockets with plunder and skip. He was methodical and cold blooded. He would not make the mistake so many others had. He would make none at all. Step by step he prepared for the coup. He must change his looks, his gait and his voice. An actor taught him the art of appearing to be ten years older. Some one else taught him that by holding a peach stone in his mouth he could alter the tones of his voice. A shoemaker made him a shoe for a deformed foot, and for more than 300 nights he walked the streets with it. It gave him a limp and a top shoulder. He tested these things in the severest way. In his disguise he went boldly into the store as a stranger and made purchases of men who had known him for years and years.

Three months before the affair was ripe James Dodd had his every plan laid. He would not see abroad, as others had done and been overhauled almost at once. He purchased a boot-stead not five blocks away. He purchased an old house to live in. He secured a housekeeper. He had worn his wig a hundred times. The shoe for the deformed foot had a cavity to the heel. The diamonds hidden away there would always be at hand. At closing time one day the event came off. Inset and inset diamonds to the amount of $20,000 were carried home in his pocket. An hour later he had taken possession of his new quarters under another name.

The "diamond mystery" made a great sensation. The house believed in the honesty of its employee; the police believed he had skipped. Three or four days were lost in discussion, and then a reward was offered and the sleuths let loose. They telegraphed to every port in the empire. They gave notice to all the steamers that had sailed. They had every constable in every village on the watch. If Dodd had committed five cold blooded murders the hunt couldn't have been fiercer. It dragged into days and weeks and months. It was discussed over and over in the press and in every police station and barroom in the land. A young man who had lived a life beyond reproach for fourteen years walks out of the house where he has been employed and disappears from the ken of men. He was not even seen to leave his boarding house that evening. No one saw him on the street. He had not gone abroad by any sort of craft. He had not taken a train for any point within the empire. While he was directly in charge of the gems, the manager or other one of the partners had access to them. The detectives figured it out that Dodd must surely be the guilty party, but a large element of the public shook their heads doubtfully and made comments that put others in embarrassing positions. After six months the hunt was abandoned. It was the general opinion that Dodd was dead by accident or suicide. Meanwhile the bookstand flourished. Its only attendant day by day was Mr. Cooper, its owner. The only one to penetrate the old house behind it was the aged housekeeper, and she went to her own home of nights. The public had been buying books of a certain man for years. One day he dropped out of sight and a new man stood behind the counter. There was a moment of surprise at seeing him, a question or two, perhaps, as to the other, and then business went on as usual. That's the way with the public. The old goes and the new comes. There were no newer or better books. There was no change in prices. There was nothing to call for discussion.

Detectives loomed away a quarter of an hour at the stand. Employees of the house of Walford & Co. turned up there almost daily. All sorts of men stopped there. For weeks Mr. Cooper heard his case discussed, but it was rarely that he had a word to say. Soon after the bookstand changed hands a little girl twelve years old began to pass that way every day with her father's dinner. By and by she and Mr. Cooper began to nod and smile to each other. Sometimes she would stop and chat for a minute, and sometimes he handed her a penny. She told her father of these things, and he was wroth, but after walking around to the stand one day and looking the man over he decided that there was no harm in him.

A year lacking a few days had gone by, and it was midwinter again, when one day as the girl passed the stand two dogs began fighting in her path. Mr. Cooper hurried out to kick them apart and make a safe passage for her, but in doing so he slipped and fell and rolled off the narrow walk in front of a van and was run over. There were two or three minutes of excitement, and then he was taken away to the hospital, and the doctors found him already dead. Mr. Cooper was known by name, but of course his clothing was overhauled. As the shoe for the deformed foot was removed it was seen that the heel was turned a little. A minute's investigation revealed the fact that there was a cavity in it that cavity the diamonds stolen from the house in Bond street. The man had planned and plotted and doctored and waited, and yet it had all been in vain. The very first trial had exposed him and lost him his life at one and the same moment. M. QUAD.

The Knock-out Blow.

The blow which knocked out Corbett was a revelation to the prize fighters. From the earliest days of the ring the knock-out blow was aimed for the jaw, the temple or the jugular vein. Stomach punches were thrown in to weary and weary the fighter, but it is a scientific man had told one of the old fighters that the most vulnerable spot was the region of the stomach, he'd have laughed at him for an ignoramus. Dr. Pierce is bringing hope to the public a parallel fact; that the stomach is the most vulnerable organ out of the prize ring as well as in it. We protect your lungs, throat, feet and lungs, but the stomach is utterly indifferent to, until disease finds the solar plexus and knocks us out. Make your stomach sound and strong by the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, and you protect yourself in your most vulnerable spot. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures "weak stomach," indigestion, or dyspepsia, torpid liver, bad, thin and impure blood and other diseases of the organs of digestion and nutrition.

The "Golden Medical Discovery" has a specific curative effect upon all mucous surfaces and hence cures catarrh, no matter where located or what stage it may have reached. In Nasal Catarrh it is well to cleanse the passages with Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy while using the "Discovery" as a constitutional remedy. Why the "Golden Medical Discovery" cures catarrhal diseases, as of the stomach, bowels, bladder and other pelvic organs will be plain to you if you will read a booklet of extracts from the writings of eminent medical authorities, endorsing its ingredients and explaining their curative properties. It is mailed free on request. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y. This booklet gives all the ingredients entering into Dr. Pierce's medicines from which it will be seen that they contain not a drop of alcohol, pure, triple-distilled glycerine being used instead. Dr. Pierce's great thousand-page illustrated Common Sense Medical Adviser will be sent free, paper-bound, for 21 one-cent stamps, or cloth-bound for 31 stamps. Address Dr. Pierce as above.

Not Smoking.

In a Glasgow car was an aged Irishman who held a pipe in his mouth. The conductor told him he could not smoke, but he paid no heed. Presently the guard came in to the car, and said, with a show of irritation, "Didn't I tell you you couldn't smoke in this car?" "Well, O'm not smoking," "You've got a pipe in your mouth," "So O! have me feet in me boots," replied Pat, "but O'm not walking."—Christian Register.

A Humane Appeal.

A humane citizen of Richmond, Ind., Mr. F. D. Williams, 167 West Main street, says: "I appeal to all persons with weak lungs to take Dr. King's New Discovery, the only remedy that has helped me and fully comes up to the proprietor's recommendation." It saves more lives than all other throat and lung remedies put together. Used as a cough and cold cure the world over. Cures asthma, bronchitis, croup, whooping cough, quinsy, hoarseness and phthisis, stops hemorrhages of the lungs and builds them up. Guaranteed at all druggists. 50c and $1.00. Trial bottle free.

Oregon's Solution.

Oregon, according to the Kansas City Journal, has a novel solution of the "drink problem." Publicity, of course. If a man thirsts for strong drink, he must take out a license, at a cost of $5 a year. In order to buy it. Every six months the names of licensed drinkers are to be published in the newspapers. There is only one conceivable drawback. Advertising the names of the licensees may bankrupt the state.—New York Tribune.

Health in the Canal Zone.

The high wages paid make it a mighty temptation to our young artisans to join the force of skilled workmen needed to construct the Panama canal. Many are restrained, however, by the fear of fevers and malaria. It is the knowing ones—those who have used Electric Bitters, who go there without this fear, well knowing they are safe from malarious influence with Electric Bitters on hand. Cures blood poison, too, biliousness, weakness and all stomach, liver and kidney troubles. Guaranteed by all druggists. 50c.

A Maid and a Method.

[Copyright, 1907, by Mary McKee.]

He finally managed to get his cigar to working satisfactorily and stretched himself comfortably on the grass.

She leaned back against the tree trunk and watched a squirrel on a neighboring branch.

Harrington noticed that she seemed to have entirely forgotten his presence unless there was merely a comfortable consciousness of the fact that he was there if she needed him.

"When you have satisfactorily examined the trees, the squirrel, the water falling over those stones and have formed your opinion concerning the entrancing horizon," he said in a slightly injured tone, "wouldn't you like to talk to me some?"

She took off her hat and laid it on the grass beside her with a sigh of satisfaction.

"None of those things is more interesting to me, Diogenes, than the story of you, I assure you."

"Sometimes I almost conclude that I positively dislike you," he said audibly, taking long puffs at his cigar. "I never enred much for women, but in this case there is a stronger element. I believe it almost approaches dislike."

She wriggled her blond head into a more comfortable pose against the tree trunk and leaned upon him as if he had said something truly gratifying.

"It's an achievement, Diogenes, to have inspired you with a strong feeling of any description."

"You have such a confounded way of pouncing upon a fellow's thoughts and holding them up to ridicule. You can analyze a man as easily as a chemist can analyze a patent medicine. Didn't you know, Miss Burton, that women ought to make themselves—er—er—attractive? It's unnecessary for them to go in for psychology, analysis and—er—er—er."

"Attractive? Oh, Diogenes, you are woefully lacking in manners! I was taking solid comfort and content in the belief that the powers that be had made me attractive and was amusing myself with your so called vivisection merely as a side issue. I see, my dear philosopher, that you are not fitted for the gentle ways of polite society. If it didn't sound slangy I'd say, 'Back to your tub!' It was a tub that Diogenes enjoyed so thoroughly, wasn't it?"

He was by degrees working himself into an exceedingly bad temper.

"Miss Burton, do you know that blond women have always enjoyed the reputation of being fools—more or less?" he asked scathingly.

"All of which leads to?" she interrogated, with elaborate innocence.

"The fact that it's time you decided whether you are going to marry that idiot Darrell or me. We've both been dangling around you the whole summer."

"Your climax are strong," she smiled admiringly. "That idiot Darrell or—er—er—er? Don't you recognize a certain similarity to Pope in the way you construct your sentences?"

"It's impossible to make a climax after Darrell," he snorted. "It would be an impossibility to find a bigger idiot to name after him."

"Everything, my dear man, depends upon the point of view." She pinned on her hat and turned toward the path leading to the hotel.

That afternoon Harrington lay half asleep, his new magazine over his face, in the shade of the bushes that grew back of the summer house.

"Virginia, you are acting shamefully," he heard Darrell's voice.

So he called her Virginia, did he? And she allowed it!

Virginia evidently enjoyed the idea of being shamefully, for he heard a little ripple of merriment.

"But, you know, Jack, he really does need some of the comfort taken out of him—women have spoiled him so."

"I think you have tormented him enough," Darrell insisted, "and you have carried on with me outrageously. I feel partly to a fraud. You can't keep it up much longer, for when Eleanor comes next week he will soon find out that I've been engaged to your sister all along. Why not put him out of his misery? You know you like him."

"Of course I do, and I'm going to marry him, but he needs a little training first."

Darrell rose and started toward the house. "I'm going to finish my letter to Eleanor," he said. "I'll leave you here to finish your look. Shall I tell Eleanor that we'll make it a double wedding in November?"

Virginia evidently took time to meditate.

"I think he'll make an awfully handsome bridegroom," she said softly.

Darrell laughed delightedly.

"First time I ever saw you with a real attack, Virginia. I don't see, to save my soul, how he's failed to find out that you care. But, as for handsome bridegrooms, I'll have you remember that I'll be there myself."

And he walked down the path whistling.

Harrington sat up, let his magazine fall unnoted to the ground and brushed his coat carefully.

His gray eyes were twinkling as he crept into the summer house.

He caught the startled girl in his arms. "A man has a perfect right to kiss the girl he's going to marry in November. I'm so glad you acknowledge that I'll look picturesque at the wedding."

Virginia's face tried to adjust itself to an indignant expression.

"You wretch, you heard what I said!" she gasped.

Harrington held her fast and lifted her face until her eyes looked into his. "Just so—exactly so—and nothing has ever added so much to my conceit, Virginia, mine."

Growth of Rural Delivery.

It is now only fourteen years since an appropriation of $10,000 was made for experiments with the project of rural free delivery. As recently as ten years ago the appropriation for this new service amounted to only $10,000, while this year rural free delivery will cost $37,000,000.

Every route proposed must be inspected before it is accepted by the department, more than 30,000 rural carriers must be watched and paid, and all the minute requirements of the laws and regulations must be enforced. It is a great undertaking, and we in the cities should bear with some patience the short-comings of the service which we get, while this necessity of rural development, this boon to the tolling millions on the farms, resolves the attention it so well deserves. All the improvements needed will come in good time.—Boston Globe.

NOT WHOLLY CIVILIZED.

One of these was a happy family that began to get a few hard blows when Ma bought a new work on Etiquette. Up to that time the family had not tried to throw on any lace.

The male contingent stonched around the house in their shirt-sleeves, while the girls often came to breakfast in their Balloon-Wrappers, and never thought of primping until about 3 P. M. Father had an assortment of Table Manners left over from his early experience on the farm.

He never saw the sense of changing knives when he backed into the butter, and as for using the side of the spoon, he never could get the hang of it.

Up to the time that he married and became house-husband he had been a Swallowtail in a $1.00 suit. For years he had been a Swallowtail, so as to get all that was coming to him, and cooked his coffee in the Sauter, and concluded his Exhibition of Barbicue Sports by using a large, lumber piece of bread as a mop.

His wife worked on him for twenty years, and finally had him so civilized that he no longer tucked the Napkin inside of his collar, although he still put both elbows on the table and ground a little just before tackling the pie.

Ma belonged to several clubs and began to meet the Lady Managers of Society. It was her ambition to lift her own family out of the Skate in vision and get the whole bunch into the local set. That is why she bought the Volume containing this year's League Rules for cutting into High Life.

She wanted the boys to forget their corned origin and do the Reginald Act and learn how to act in the Presence of Ladies. They were mostly Hands and Feet, and had no Ambition in Life except to play Baseball.

The girls were a Sad Lot when Ma flung them up and decided to transform them into Drawing Room Queens. They were Gum-Chewers of the most abandoned type, and what they did to the English Language it would be a shame to tell. Each of them was more or less stuck on some childish Percy who wore his Watch Chain high up and rubbed himself with Eau de Cologne.

Ma's Purpose in studying the Book of Etiquette was to remove the Kluge from this array of Raw Material.

She wanted each of the boys to be a Chesterfield, while the girls were expected to brace up and follow in the footsteps of Mrs. Sherwood.

As Director of the Training School she had to call them down about 1000 times per day. When she had Company the boys always forgot to arise when a Lady entered the Room. When Dinner was announced they were always first at the Table. Instead of conversing with the Persons seated next to them, they hunched over and got lonely with the Villies.

As for the girls, they usually doctored in a corner and had a Whispering Book. At the Table they would get in Attack of the Tingles, without letting any one else in on the Good Thing.

To cap the climax, the Male Parent would usually try to lift the Bloom by springing some ancient Whereabouts by Haverly's Minstrels as far back as 1880.

Ma had a proud Chance to win a Social Standing so long as she was handicapped by that Band of Yokels. Just when she would be talking Art with a Massachusetts Accent, one of the boys would break in with a demand for a Second Helping of Cornflower. Or else the Prize Blacksmith, in a well-meaning effort to be hospitable, would urge the Lady Opposite to pinch in and Eat some more.

After Dinner it often happened that Ma would tout the Accomplishments of the Young Ladies. Accordingly, they would be urged to Play Something, at which they would hang back and snicker and do a Sis Hopkins Specialty.

While they were Killing Time, Father would usually fall asleep with his Mouth open, or else one of the boys would upset something in trying to do a Sneak from the Room.

As soon as the last unhappy Guest had escaped into the Night there would be a large pile of Rags waiting for the whole Tribe. Ma would sit up until 1 o'clock reminding them of all the Horrible Breaks they had made. She said that sitting around in the Kitchen cracking Hicory-Nuts was about their size when it came to playing the Society Game. She allowed that they would be more at home if they moved out to some place and associated with the Live-Stock. When Ma got tired she forgot her Culture.

This training and handed out a very Talisman Line of Conversation.

She said she was good and tired of trying to make Ladies and Gentlemen out of a flock of Yaps who took after their Father.

At this she would get a rise out of Father. He said he didn't propose to strain himself being polite to a lot of Four Flushes who owed him Money. That was the Trouble with Father. He was President of the Company, and seemed to think that his Official Position gave him a right to break Crackers into his Soup. He refused to wear a White Tie with his Evening Clothes just because some cheap Department Manager had set the Style.

As for the offspring, they were too mud-headed to get wise to Ma's magnificent System of doing the Heavy. When it came to a toss-up between a Pink Tea and a Variety Show, they put their Spending Money on the Com Song. Any time that Ma dressed him up and took them out to meet the Elite they hung back.

At last Ma saw that the only hope lay in shipping the whole Pack away to high-toned Schools in the East.

For several years the Rising Generation put on a Terrific Crimp in Father's Income, but at last they came home all speeded up, and then they were so Fly that Father could not travel in the same class and even Ma could get a few pointers from them.

At present they are tearing up the Society in their Touring Cars, and they have the Nerve to tackle any kind of Society.

His Viewpoint.

The philanthropic Fifth-avenue lady was visiting a lower East Side Sunday school. To test the aptness of a particularly indigent cluster of pupils, she took the class in hand to question them.

"Children, which is the greatest of all virtues?"

Not one answered.

"Think a little. What is it I am doing when I give my time and pleasure to come down among you for your moral good?"

A grumpy kid went up.

"Well, what am I doing, little boy?"

"Buth!" he said. New York Times.

There is a young man in Boston who can trace his family back several generations. His falling is a desire to be thought a descendant of one of "the old families." One thing in which he takes particular pride is a continental uniform. He was showing this to a young lady the other day.

"My great-grandfather wore this suit when he gave his life to his country during the brave days of the revolution," he said. The young lady inspected the uniform carefully, but could find neither bullet hole nor saber cut. She turned to him with a charming smile. "Oh! Was the poor old gentleman drowned?" she asked.

Merion Kester came slowly down the lighthouse stairs. He liked the wind and twist of them. A hazy wish floated through his mind that they might never end. He would like to go on forever, hearing the lap of her little feet on the iron behind him, feeling her hand touch his shoulder every now and then when she grew a bit dizzy with the curve.

The fact was Mr. Kester's sense of proportion had been rather unsettled since the night before. Then Marlon, in that strange, illogical way girls have and in spite of her aunt's skill, full, contrary nature, had made the elusive Mr. Harvey understand that she was not overwhelmed with delight at his invitation to try his new electric launch and within the same five minutes had promised Kester to visit the light with him, "even if we have to go in a dory."

It had been somewhat hard for Mr. Kester when he came down to the cape on his short vacation to find his old playmate absorbed by the wealthy Mr. Harvey. It was true that Marlon did not appear very happy, but her aunt certainly seemed at peace with all the world and made an extremely willing chaperon on the many trips which that gentleman was constantly planning. This had been Kester's first chance.

After thanks and farewells to the old captain, Kester guided his companion down the steep path to the little, pebbly beach, where their boat awaited them. It was not a dory, but a gay little pleasure craft, bright with many cushions. Kester helped Marlon in, feeling a keen regret that he could not put her into the handsomest launch on the coast.

There was no hint of regret in Marlon's face as she picked up the rubber ropes and the boat swung off. The sun was warm, but the breeze, filled with the tang of the sea, blew the girl's bright hair about her face and brought a sparkle to her brown eyes.

"And over the sea lies Spain," sang the girl happily.

"You'd like to visit the old world, wouldn't you, Marlon? You must go some day," said Kester, wondering how he would feel if he should know that Harvey and Marlon were journeying about Europe together.

"Some day," repeated the girl softly, her dark eyes dreaming, then smiling into his. She was quite willing to push everything but the present moment into the indefinite future.

The man hesitated a moment, then said, with a note of entreaty in his voice: "May I row you over to Turkey's creek before we go back? It's such a quaint, Dutchy little place, with its old wharfs and fishermen's houses, that I want to see it again. You know my vacation ends tomorrow."

Marlon's face suddenly flushed till it was the deep pink of the wild roses that grew along the shore.

"I'd love to go with you," she answered, "only—well, you see, after all I must tell Mr. Harvey he might take me out in his launch at 5, and she'll be much displeased if I am not at home."

"Oh, I see," said Merion Kester rather blankly. "I'd better hurry, then."

His mouth suddenly became a straight line. He began to pull with long even strokes. "Harvey can give her everything in the world," he thought, with remorse and some bitterness, "and he is a very decent fellow besides—aside from being a snob. If ever a girl was born for riches she was. What right have I to ask her to share my mean little salary? 'Tis a good thing my vacation is nearly over; I might say something foolish and make her unhappy. But, oh, may she not smile at me again before we reach the farther side of the little bay?"

"The tide is running out fast," said Marlon, looking down through the clear water to the yellow sands.

"We'll strike the channel soon," returned Kester, pulling himself together with an effort. "I can never tell exactly where it is when the wind ripples the whole bay. Great day for sailing. Wish we had a yacht, Marlon."

"Oh, I like this little boat fully as well," declared the girl contentedly, then suddenly cried, "It's growing shallow, sailor boy; look out!"

Kester's ears stopped in the air. That was the name she had called him when, as children, they had built many dream ships together.

The oars made a savage swoop into the water, the boat shot half its length ahead, then stopped with a jerk, its nose buried in the sand.

"Great Scott, we've struck on the flats! Jerk up the rudder, Marlon, while I push her off. Then, after an unavailing effort: "It's a mercy this oar is stout. No, don't push, child; sit still."

"But the tide is just racing out," objected Marlon, while all of the man's efforts simply caused the obstinate little craft to grind deeper into the sand.

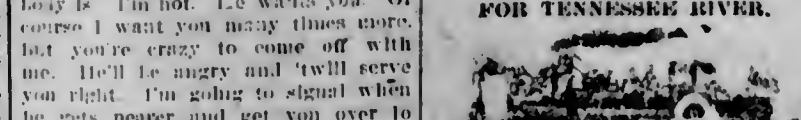

Wrath and mortification struggled on Kester's face. "It's had enough to have to take the princess out in a mean little rowboat," he broke out, "but to shore her on a sand bank and not be able to pull her off is absolute disgrace."

From far up the bay came the sound of distant puffing, and Kester, glancing up, had the pleasure of seeing a new, shining launch coming rapidly down the channel toward the stranded boat. Still tugging and pulling ineffectually, he turned angrily to the astonished girl.

"Your aunt will be pleased to find you here, Marlon. Good heavens, why did you ever come off with me? You ought to be in that launch this minute. You don't belong here"—his wrath poured out on her—"you love luxury;

WIFE SURRENDERS HUSBAND TO OTHER

Leaves for France to Secure
Divorce from Him.

Ferdinand Earl and Woman He Is To Marry Go To Say Goodbye To
Mrs. Earl and Children.

IS ACTING ON CONVICTIONS.

New York, Sept. 4.—Ferdinand Earl, Jr., the artist, and son of the late General Ferdinand Earl, who during his lifetime was prominent in financial circles, will come down from his country place outside of Monroe, Orange county, N. Y., on Wednesday to bid good-bye for all time to his wife and son, who are to sail on the Holland-America line steamer Ryndam. With Mr. Earl will come to say good-bye also the woman, who has been staying with her brother and mother as a guest in the Earl home for the last ten days, and whom Mr. Earl will wed as soon as his wife shall have been granted a divorce in France.

Mr. Earl says that he is acting on his convictions in this instance. Conditions over which he and his wife have just all control make them happier apart. This has been agreed between them.

Family Welcomes Future Wife.
The woman whom he intends to wed has been living in his home for some days past entirely by his wife's consent, and all will part the best of friends, says Mr. Earl.

A reporter saw Mr. Earl and his wife at their home on the Earl estate today and both of them told the story of how they had agreed to separate. The woman, who is to be the second Mrs. Earl, sat upstairs and took no part in the conversation.

Mr. Earl said:
"Less than ten years ago, when I was studying in Paris, I married a French woman. She was very dear to me; she is yet, but in another way, I had all that I seemed to need, my art, a wife, and plenty to live on. We were very happy.

"We came over here to live several years, out here in the country where we could be alone and undisturbed. We were still happy, and more so yet when a son was born to us. But soon something began to arise between us, I cannot explain. Call it incompatibility of temper, conflict of ideals—what you may. Those things cannot be explained. Maybe I was cruel, who knows?

"This state of affairs grew continuously. We both felt it and said nothing. For two years I have been working on a poem of seven connected sonnets explaining my views on marriage. I believe that we are married before we are born through heaven directed affinities, and that marriage continues after our death. Believing this, I came to see that my wife was not my affinity.

Finds True Love at Last.
"But the coming of the child that was part of each of us made it doubly hard to take the logical step. The artist pained and choked back a sob.

Then he continued to tell of the torment of those linked, but who are not affinities. He also related the meeting with the woman who is to become his wife. They became acquainted in France, where Earl had gone to attend his mother's death. They loved at first sight, he says. Although a socialist, she did not believe in free love. After much argument, in which Earl's wife took a prominent part, the present agreement of divorce was settled upon.

Missionaries Crossing Country.

Tangier, Sept. 4.—On learning of the determination of the American missionaries, Messrs. Clinton, Reed and Enyret, to remain at Fez, while all the other Christians, some 70 in number, were leaving for the coast, the populace of Fez was convinced that they must not be genuine Americans, but French citizens. In consequence of the fierce hostility of the Moors at Fez to everything French, these brave pioneers of Christianity in Morocco were individually compelled to abandon their work in that city, and are now traveling across the country, bound for Tangier.

Alton Officials in for It.

Chicago, Sept. 4.—The Chicago & Alton railroad and its officials were temporarily at least, denied an expected immunity bath before Judge Landis. The proceedings were such as to surprise and startle the Alton officials. All indications pointed to either Judge Landis or United States District Attorney Sims taking the bit in his teeth.

Most of the things we wish for are about as useful as a counterfeit dollar bill.

THE INTERURBAN LINES.

An entirely new element has entered into the social, commercial, and even the political life of the country, says Raymond, in the Chicago Tribune. I have just finished a journey of 100 miles, completed within two days, over the interurban trolley system of Illinois, and am prepared to testify to the extraordinary effect in the development of the country produced by the electric railroads from town to town. They are running luxurious buffet chair cars, limited trains rush from city to city, express matter and freight are carried in special cars, and, last of all, the trolley line sleeper, as I can testify, is an absolute success.

There is something more in this building up than a mere extension of street car service to the country. Country and city are being knit together and the local and suburban transportation business seems destined to pass from the steam railroad to the trolley line within a short time. It may be many a year before the through lines of railroad are operated by electricity, but it will be but a short time until all the short line business of the country is done on cars deriving their own motive power from a central power station, often many miles away.

No Longer an Experiment.

So now has been the development of the interurban system that there is no satisfactory figure to be furnished as to its extent. Like the early days of settlement in America and particularly in the west, the interurban trolley system in every state where it has been given a fair trial far outstrips its historians. It has progressed beyond the experimental stage, but the mileage is increasing so rapidly and new systems are being developed so constantly even the illustrations who are called upon for the money to build the lines can scarcely keep track of their investments.

One huge system in Illinois alone ready has in operation about 475 miles of track, with 105 miles under construction, and schemes for an extension of 100 miles more. New England is gridironed with interurban trolley lines and Ohio and Indiana have developed their systems to such an extent that after a few links in the chain are completed during next year it will be possible to go from Wheeling, W. Va., by through trolley line to Chicago and St. Louis.

Bridging the Mississippi.

There is more than usual significance in the fact that it has been found advantageous to build a great bridge across the Mississippi river at St. Louis for the use of the Illinois interurban system. The passenger service is fully established in a dozen different states and the carriage of express matter and light freight is progressing with equal rapidity in every direction. The farmer learns to go to the city oftener, the city merchant sends his small packages by the trolley line to the country, and perishable fruits, vegetables, milk, and dairy products are today being transported with greater success on the trolley line than by any suburban service the steam railroads can furnish.

Even coal and whisky and similar heavy products are being handled on the electric lines, and though the day may be far distant when these roads will be anything more than feeders to the steam lines on ordinary bulk freight they are likely to have the monopoly of wayside transportation and come much nearer to the consumers than the railroads can ever hope to do.

THREE GENERATIONS

PARTICIPATE IN UNIQUE DOUBLE WEDDING.

Helde Exonerates Club, 'Twas Cupid
Not Cocktails Led Her Out of the Club.

Chicago, Sept. 4.—Three generations in one family figured as principals in one of the most unique double weddings that ever took place in Chicago—and at the same time silenced forever the charge that Mrs. Paulina Harlette Lyon resigned as secretary of the Woman's Athletic club because its members drank cocktails.

The principals in the novel wedding were:
Mrs. Paulina Harlette Lyon, 2787 Kenmore avenue.
Albert Richard Pritchard, Rochester, N. Y.
Curtis Burrows Lyon, son of Mrs. Lyon.

Miss Clara F. Allen, Boston, Mass.
Both these weddings were performed by the Rev. William Putnam, of Lansing, Mich., who is the father of the bride in the first wedding and the grandfather of the bridegroom in the second. The Rev. Mr. Putnam is the state captain of the Michigan G. A. R.

None except members of the families interested and close friends were invited to the wedding, so the members of the Woman's Athletic club did not have a chance to show their appreciation of Mrs. Lyon's actions in silencing the reports which followed her resignation as secretary of the club. Gossips immediately sought a reason for her action and finally someone said she had quit because the members of the club insisted on having liquor served at their dinners.

While the club was still resting under these charges Mrs. Lyon came to the rescue and sacrificed her secret to save the reputation of the club. She admitted that cupid and not cocktails was the cause for her resignation and then it was that her friends learned for the first time of the engagement which ended with marriage today.

Japs Are Not Seeking War.

Seattle, Wash., Sept. 4.—"Japan is not seeking a war with the United States at this time," declared General Luke E. Towne, who arrived here a few days ago on the steamship Minnesota from Japan.

TO SAVE FATHER

YOUTH HIDES MURDER OF A BEAUTIFUL WIDOW.

Strange Story Told By Youth In Jail
of His Father's Infatuation for Her.

Homer, La., Sept. 4.—To prevent his father from deserting his family and eloping with a beautiful widow, Benjamin Baucum hired a negro to murder her. The negro, Green Cooper, stood outside the house in the darkness and shot through a window, killing the widow and the baby in her arms.

Baucum and the negro are in jail here and both have confessed. There is talk of lynching the negro. A great many persons pity Baucum.

The murdered widow, Lennie Bond was 35 years old. She was the most beautiful woman in the parish. She lived alone with her son, 5 years old.

Father Aged Sixty.

Dr. James Baucum, the father of the young man in jail, is 60 years old and lives with his wife and six children. The story told by his son is as follows:

"I discovered that father was in love with Mrs. Bond and that they had planned for him to desert my mother and the children and then he and the widow would run away together and be married.

"I went to Mrs. Bond about it and pleaded with her to give up my father. She denied that she had any intention of eloping. But I knew better. I pointed out to her that she was only 35 years old, while my father was 60, and that this discrepancy in their ages would prevent them being happy.

Pleaded With Father.

"Then I pleaded with my father. He admitted to me that he loved the widow so that he could not give her up. He told me to keep silent about it. I saw that he was infatuated with her. She seemed to have hypnotized him so that she could control him as she wished.

"I saw there was scandal and disgrace ahead. I thought of the 'unwritten law.' If such a law permits a woman to avenge the betrayal of her honor, why won't it permit a son to avenge the betrayal of his father by a woman?"

Bold Negro $50.
The young man admits that he paid the negro $50 to do the shooting and the negro confessed he did it.

Dr. Baucum was the most prominent doctor here.

INCREASE IN PAY.

Given to All Clerical Employees of Missouri Pacific.

St. Louis, Mo., Sept. 4.—The Missouri Pacific-Iron Mountain railway system today, of its own volition, directed an increase in the salaries of all its clerical help, averaging 10 per cent, effective the first day of next month. The order increases the total of the system pay roll about $150,000 a year. There are about 2,000 employees of the Gould lines engaged in a clerical capacity at their St. Louis headquarters, and at various other points on the system not affiliated with any labor union. They are attached to all departments, transportation, traffic, auditing, legal, industrial and miscellaneous. The detail work of arranging for the clerks' increased compensation is now receiving attention at headquarters here.

MAKES PIANO THAT WHISTLES.

Richmond, Va., Sept. 4.—Rev. James O. Early, a young negro, has been granted a patent for a whistling piano of his own invention. The instrument has a keyboard arranged on a scale somewhat different from a piano. It is capable of whistling the most difficult notes. Mr. Early already has been approached by a northern man with a handsome offer for the patent rights. He hopes to induce men of his race to organize a stock company to exploit the instrument.

TWO FATAALLY BURNED.

Two Others Badly Scorched Trying to Extinguish the Flames.

Dallas, Tex., Sept. 1.—One woman was burned to death, another received burns from which she will die and a man and girl, the daughter of one of the victims, received serious injuries last night and today. Mrs. J. W. Manley was burning trash in her back yard yesterday when her clothing caught fire. She was so badly burned that she died in the evening. Her little daughter was seriously burned while trying to aid her. This morning Mrs. E. P. Carlisle, while trying to light a stove with coal oil was fatally burned and her husband was burned about the hands and face while trying to rescue her.

QUICKSAND IN ILLINOIS

RIVER TRAPS THREE BOYS.

Peoria, Ill., Sept. 4.—Standing knee deep in quicksand, with the water of the Illinois river up to their necks, two prominent young men of Peoria, north of Peoria, were found this morning by a searching party, and the third member of the canoe party was found lying on the bottom of the river. The dead are Charles McAntee, Keeling Wilson and Will Joiner.

The three young men had attended a chicken fry given by the business men of Peoria on Sunday, and about sundown started home, a distance of about two miles, in a skiff. Their non-arrival up to an early hour this morning gave rise to the fear that they were drowned. Searching parties started out, and they were found by Supervisor William Shaw and Elliott Rose.

Wilson and Joiner were standing in the quicksand as they had endeavored to walk to shore after the boat was overturned. McAntee's body was found lying in the quicksand in about 2 feet of water, and the overturned boat was caught in the willows a short distance away.

For $5 steam will do the work which would cost $300 if done by hand.
